

Universidad de Granada

Fees

The following information is relevant only for those who wish to undertake a master's degree at the UGR in the academic year 2019-2020. It is important to note that the UGR is a public university. Accordingly, we maintain a policy of providing affordable education at both undergraduate and postgraduate level.

Fees for UGR master's degrees: 2019-2020

One ECTS credit currently costs €13.68 (for first-time enrolments only). Given that most master's degrees at the UGR consist of 60 ECTS credits per year (this may vary depending on the programme you choose) master's degree fees currently amount to approximately €821 per year.

In other words, if you complete a master's degree consisting of 60 ECTS credits at the UGR, your fees will amount to approximately €821, while for a degree comprising 90 ECTS and lasting 1.5 years you can expect to pay approximately €1,232 in fees, provided that you complete the programme within the designated timeframe.

An additional administrative fee of €59.10 is currently charged in order to open each student's academic record.

Fees may vary slightly for the academic year 2020-2021.
